Our Right to Distribute

The National Alliance can hardly be described as a "constitutionalist" group. The United States Constitution, drawn up by forward-looking, revolutionary-minded White men when they took control of things 230 years ago, worked well for a time, but ultimately was inadequate to serve the interests of those Founding Fathers' posterity: us! — the long-suffering founding stock, White Americans for whom those constitutional protections were intended to secure our rights and guarantee our continued existence as a distinct European people.

That's not to say that we won't continue to invoke our constitutional rights — for as long as we can, anyhow — in order to ensure that our message of hope for our people is not censored by our people's deadly enemies and their dupes. Jews and their collaborators now declare openly that Whites need to be eliminated. It is the National Alliance's ideologically sound program and long-term goals for our race, and its potential to arouse and organize Whites for their own exclusive interests, that drives the Aryan-phobic Jew apoplectic. See the Commentary section in this issue of the BULLETIN, and the enclosed Our Right to Distribute Literature is Guaranteed by the US Constitution information sheet, for more on our efforts, and our determination, to keep up our efforts to reach our people on an ever-increasing scale. The information sheet is also available online as a ready-to-print PDF file, and may be found in our repository of National Alliance fliers at:

National Alliance Love Your Race Campaign Intensifies

The following letter by Chairman Williams to a local eastern Iowa newspaper, The Gazette, was published in its 24 January Sunday edition.

I am writing regarding Adam Sullivan's Jan. 16 column "Iowa racists expose true intentions."

The National Alliance, Inc. (NA) and our "Love Your Race" fliers are the subjects of Sullivan's column and are not represented sympathetically. There's no "white power" message in our flier. We do not appreciate being called "haters" or being associated with some "hate movement" just because Sullivan's source, the Southern Poverty Law Center (SPLC), makes those malicious claims about us and worse.

The SPLC "hate watchdogs" have for years openly declared their intentions to destroy the National Alliance, the organization that Sullivan is informed by them "had only 100 members in 2007" — 11 years ago.

Sullivan's closing opinion in his column conforms with the SPLC's: "It is our responsibility to defeat it [racism]."

Thanks to The Gazette's granting to me the time-honored journalistic right of reply to defend public criticism of the National Alliance and our Love Your Race campaign in the same venue where it was published. I'm not inclined to be defensive of our organization's sound, firm position on the importance of racial loyalty. Sul-

Our Right to Distribute Literature is Guaranteed by the US Constitution

prepared by the National Office of the National Alliance

THE UNITED STATES Constitution is by definition the basic law of the land. No federal, state, county, city, or community law can contradict any of the basic principles of the Constitution. In fact, all government executives, legislators, policemen, and judges are required to abide by it.

Our Constitution states: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

As you can see from the above quotation, the First Amendment of the US Constitution guarantees every citizen, among other things, freedom of speech. In regard to leafleting, the Supreme Court has interpreted this to mean that a state or municipality may not ban the distribution of leaflets on streets, sidewalks, or other public places. Jamison v. Texas 318 US 413 (1943) and Marsh v. Alabama 326 US 501 (1946).

The Supreme Court applied this rule to universities both state and private, in Papish v. University of Missouri 410 US 667 (1973). Furthermore, leafleting cannot be prohibited on a military base in areas of public access, according to Flower v. U.S. 407 US 197 (1972).

The Supreme Court has also found that door-to-door solicitations for the purpose of distributing information may not be banned regardless of the wishes of the householder to receive such information in this manner, according to Martin v. Struthers 319 US 141 (1943). Furthermore, a state or municipality may not tax or require any license for the distribution or sale of political or religious material door-to-door, as stated in Opelika v. Jones 319 US 105 (1943).

In shopping center cases, the Supreme Court has said that privately owned property may be treated as if it is publicly held where it is held open to the public; see Amalgamated Food Employees Union v. Logan Valley Plaza 391 US 308 (1968). In Amalgamated, the union was allowed to picket a business inside the shopping mall. However, a shopping center may ban leafleting in the shopping mall walkways as this interferes with the business of the center, as we see in Lloyd Corp. V. Tanner 407 US 551 (1972). As yet, there has been no case dealing specifically with the question of leafleting in the parking lot of a shopping center, but a leading legal treatise on the First Amendment says this on the subject: "The First Amendment interest should not be defeated because the property owner either disapproves of the message conveyed or simply wants to censor all speech activities. Whether outside of a freestanding store or in the common areas of a shopping center, a bare property interest does not justify the subordination of First Amendment speech rights." Nimmer on Freedom of Speech, Section 4.09, page 4-121.

In light of the above, we recommend that in the event of arrest while leafleting in one of the above areas, the individual arrested should file a civil suit for false imprisonment, malicious prosecution, and the intentional deprivation of constitutional rights and that the parties sued should include the municipality, the police department, the arresting officer, and the private property owner where applicable. In such a case, punitive as well as compensatory damages will be awarded.

We also recommend that those distributing our literature carry a pre-printed "rights card" containing the following text, which may be obtained in pre-printed form from the National Office.

To: Law Enforcement Officers:

My name: _____

My address: _____

My date of birth: _____

Formal Legal Notice:

1. I do not wish to answer any questions without first speaking to an attorney.

2. I do not consent to any search whatsoever; including but not limited to a search of my home, my car, my baggage, or my person.

3. I do not consent to being in a line-up or a show-up, or any display of any type.

4. I do not and will not waive any of my legal rights whatsoever.

Print out or obtain this "rights card" and fill in your name, address, and date of birth; fold and keep in your wallet. If stopped, present the card to the police, and then make no other statements.

What to Do if Stopped by the Police:

- Stay calm and keep your hands where the officer(s) can see them.
- Don't argue, complain, or resist arrest, even if the police are unreasonable; it will only make your situation worse.
- Hand them the "rights card" above. When questioned, say only "I have nothing to say," then make no further statements or comments.
- Remember anything you say can and will be used against you, even if officers have not read you your Miranda rights!
- Remember police badge numbers and patrol car numbers. Ask to see police identification.
- If not in custody, write down everything that happened as soon as possible.
- Keep a small audio recorder handy to record any conversations with officers; many cell telephones have recording capability.
- Try to find witnesses; get their names and telephone numbers.
- If you are injured, seek medical attention, but also get photographs of the injuries as soon as possible.
- If arrested, ask to see a lawyer immediately.

Remember These Points

1. You don't have to answer a police officer's questions, but you must show your license, registration and insurance when stopped in a car. In other situations, you can't legally be arrested for refusing to identify yourself to an officer.

2. You don't have to consent to any search of your person, your car or your house— and therefore you should not consent. If the police say they have a warrant, ask to see it. Still; do not consent to a search even if they have a warrant; make them rely on the warrant. Remember: Warrants can be defective.

3. You can be arrested for obstructing or interfering with police; do not do this.

4. You can ask if you are under arrest. If you are, you have a right to know, and a right to know why.

The National Office can assist your attorney with case law and precedent citations, based on earlier victories of National Alliance members over selective prosecution and unconstitutional statutes which were used in an attempt to deny us our constitutional right to distribute literature to the public.

THIS IMPORTANT information sheet is included (at full size and higher resolution) with this issue of the BULLETIN. It also available for download and printing at our National Alliance flier repository, http://natall.com/fliers. The important concepts and strategies in it should be committed to memory by all of our activists, and a copy of the "rights card" described herein should be kept on your person at all times. As an alternative, a copy of this entire sheet, neatly folded, with the blanks filled in, could also serve the same purpose.

THE COVER of his book features a photograph of a young Hans Schmidt, who later in life was a long time friend of William Pierce.

livan informed me that Gazette readers have the wherewithal for Google searching, so the best way to present the Alliance's counter-position is to link to this week's American Dissident Voices broadcast, here: https://nationalvanguard.org/2018/01/love-your-race-2018-the-campaign-intensifies/.

Sincerely, William White Williams, Chairman, National Alliance.

It's nice of The Gazette to actually link to our Web site and allow its readers to read our side of the "story" they published on 16 January. Other events impacting our organization have followed in Iowa since The Gazette's piece about the Alliance, including the arrest of one of our members who was distributing our material. More on that in Chairman Williams' commentary at the end of this issue of the BULLETIN.

Special Book Offer for Members and Supporters

For one month only, during February, anyone receiving this BULLETIN is entitled to purchase a copy of Hans Schmidt's remarkable, autobiographical story of World War II, SS Panzergrenadier. The Cosmotheist Book Store will begin offering these very nice hardback editions in sparkling new condition soon, at a reasonably low price under $20, plus shipping, to the public. But readers of this special offer may purchase this 400-page moving and historically significant book for just $10 each, postage and shipping included, but only during the month of February.

Here are a few excerpts from an online review of SS Panzergrenadier:

> I have been a keen student of history for 28 years now and I am always looking for a new memoir on the Waffen SS. This book is one of my personal favorites. This book will not disappoint any reader interested in the Waffen SS and once you start reading it it will be hard to put it down. I have read it three times. The author's views are honest and 'in your face' about the truth regarding the Waffen SS. Some readers will not like that. . . . Hans Schmidt is no longer with us but his story will be with me forever.

Bequests

We can report a new specific bequest to the National Alliance this month in the Last Will and Testament of a long time supporter. It's these generous bequests that will ensure the Alliance continues its revolutionary mission into the future.

It may take decades to achieve our goals, to defeat our enemies, and begin rebuilding a White world. Many of us will not live to see our final victory, but that victory is no less important to us because of that — and we can continue to fight for our goals whether we live to see them or not. Every member should take the necessary steps now to ensure that his own commitment to a White future will not end with his death. The procedure is simple: Make a will with the National Alliance as beneficiary with either a specific bequest or a remainder interest if other beneficiaries are named. A reliable attorney can draw this up properly and have it witnessed and dated. It's very helpful to mail a copy to the National Office, so please do so, but in case a copy does not reach us for any reason, be sure that you have named a thoroughly reliable executor to fulfill your final wishes.

Correspondence

Chairman Williams: I hope this year is a good one for you. You have certainly done an outstanding, super-human job to bring the Alliance back together and back to life. Our race is in deep, deep trouble and it is so divided by our enemies. They have been trying to exterminate our people for centuries and are foaming at their mouths, thinking they are almost there. I have news for them — "It ain't going to happen!"

We've been here in Harrisonburg for 35 years but have had enough. The liberal colleges here have ruined this area where my ancestors were among the first to come across the mountains and settle. The stupid churches are bringing in so many refugees that our area is now a major target for part of the alien invasion. I bought some rental properties around here so I could leave something to my grandchildren, but not now with the kind of human refuse we are getting for renters. I'm selling our house and those properties, pooling family resources and we'll all be moving to a Whiter area where we can breathe once again, living off the grid with our own energy systems. Take care, — W.S., Virginia

Note to the Cosmotheist Church Bookstore: I give you guys credit; my copy of Blood Ritual was honestly the most nicely packed book I've ever ordered. Thank you. I'm sure this will not be my last purchase from you guys. All of your books have been extremely interesting. — J.B., New Hampshire

Chairman Williams: I had a pretty interesting weekend. As you may have heard, the deranged feminists were out in full force in Knoxville this past weekend — 14,000 of them! The traditionalist Catholics were also there to protest abortion. I had the opportunity to chat with a number of these latter protesters after the event Most are young, 17-20 years old and they all struck me as radical and brash. I had a long discussion with a few of them about Strasserism. It's a little too far left for me, but seems to have made a profound impression on these youngsters.

Over the past week I must have spread about 150 MLK pamphlets, 20 "Incredibly Stupid" fliers, and about 100 "Love Your Race" fliers. I'm taking a week off next week from spreading fliers because of my work schedule, but should be back out at it the following week. Hope everything is going well at headquarters. — D.S., Tennessee

Greetings, Chairman Williams, to you and the National Alliance staff. During December we here in the Quad Cities region have increased our outreach activities to the tune of over 1,020 flyers and NA business cards distributed in areas where racially conscious Whites are most likely to be found. Supporters assisted me in blanketing the area around where the Hate Whitey coalition gathered the next day for their pathetic hatefest. Mention was made in the local propaganda organs of that distribution, and several of our other distributions were featured in local papers and on local TV news — all using the SPLC as a source on the National Alliance "haters" who dare to have a campaign for folks to love their race. By my count that makes a little over 4,200 pieces of Alliance material distributed around here by hand since August, hopefully without duplication to anyone. That said, expect an energetic continuance of local activities along that line, not just by us but by copycats who download, print and distribute our fliers because they like them — and because they have been sufficiently emboldened after visiting natall.com to express their disgust with the local establishment and churchmen who would deny us our still-protected rights of free expression. With my best regards, — J.M., Iowa

Chairman Will: [SPLC informant XX] is sure obsessed with you. The guy should get a life, but I guess he's being very well paid to rant and rat. By the way, I thought the last BULLETIN was one of the best, focusing on real world activity that is easily done. The correspondence was interesting and I always like any reprint from Dr. Pierce.

Doesn't that numb-nut know that our Cosmotheism is real? The only sane and rational religion "based upon a scientific understanding of Nature." No spooks in the sky or mumbo jumbo. I'm surprised Cosmotheism isn't more popular. — A.H., Florida

Chairman Williams: Hey! How is everyone? Hope you are all well. Donation enclosed. . . . Please mail me a couple of dozen of the "They Hate Us" fliers (the one depicting the family) on that nice heavy card stock. Thanks for all you do! P.S. Also enclosed is a little idea for a business card promoting Cosmotheism. On one side would be the question: "Does human life have a purpose?" On the other would be, "Discover Cosmotheism" along with our Web address. — V.H., Florida

Chairman Williams responds: Thank you, V.H., for your continuing support and generous donations. I like your idea for a Cosmotheism card with our Web address on it. Kevin Strom can take your sketch, add some professional typography, and the Cosmotheists among us will be happy to place these cards wherever discriminating Whites may be found who are likely to be interested in a rational belief system "based on a scientific understanding of Nature." Once the type of people we want to attract visit our sites and browse around there, some will eventually want to join with us. Cosmotheism can never be characterized as "hate" to any reasonable, perceptive Whites who have investigated it and assimilated Dr. Pierce's teachings.

A.H., don't allow what Alliance-haters say about us on anti-Alliance Internet forums, blogs, or wherever else, to affect you, especially from the admitted SPLC-paid informant and his allies. We're building something constructive; they are working with the SPLC and are intent on destroying our work — while building nothing constructive themselves. No Alliance member should waste his or her time and energy responding to these defamers, particularly on anti-Alliance sites. Participation there merely increases their audience, which is already on the wane, far below ours. Keep focused on bringing our message to thousands more decent Whites, most of whom are not on "movement" forums, every day. Show them what we believe and what we are doing. With continued persistence, excellent outreach materials, and growing financial support, we will prevail.

Commentary by Chairman William White Williams

We Must Be Doing Something Right

National Alliance member Jim Mathias (see the letter from J.M. in Iowa, above, which was dated 3 January) has been targeted by the Southern Poverty Law Center (SPLC), in cahoots with the controlled media and churchmen in eastern Iowa — and now law enforcement and the local judiciary — in a conspiracy to deny Jim his liberty and the National Alliance our right to distribute our literature. Here's part of the latest anti-National Alliance hit piece published by the SPLC on 24 January:

National Alliance member arrested while distributing white supremacist fliers: In early August of last year, Davenport residents were shocked to discover white supremacist fliers on their car windshields and posted in a local neighborhood. The fliers imitated missing persons posters, but what they declared missing was "a future for white children," an echo of the racist neo-Nazi "14 words" catchphrase coined by white nationalist terrorist David Lane. . . . Mathias's arrest [took place] while distributing racist flyers at a high school stadium parking lot. . . .

The SPLC article is rife with errors (at one point Dr. Pierce is ludicrously referred to as the "figurehead" of the National Alliance, for example), but the most serious — and doubtlessly intentional — falsehood in their piece is that Mr. Mathias was arrested while distributing our fliers. On the contrary, he was never arrested. He discovered online on 20 January that local law enforcement had issued a felony warrant for him in October for a bogus "weapon on school property" charge, based on a conversation he'd had with an officer a couple of weeks earlier while fliering in September. Jim had not been informed about this warrant for three months! Jim retained a bondsman and an attorney, turned himself in, and was released within 20 minutes. It may help Jim's defense that there are no schools near where he was supposedly on "school property," while discreetly placing our Love Your Race fliers under windshield wipers in a stadium parking lot. It helps Jim even more that he's a man of his race who will not be intimidated by race-denying, tin-horn bureaucrats who draw up and misuse local statutes to keep us from distributing our perfectly legal and truthful material to our people.

We include a National Alliance informational sheet — Our Right to Distribute Literature is Guaranteed by the US Constitution — with this issue of the BULLETIN. This is an updated version of the original that we published more than a decade ago. Anyone who is distributing our material should carry this sheet on his person to politely, but firmly, inform any inquiring authorities or individuals of our members' constitutional right to distribute our literature.

National Alliance member Paul Lennon was falsely charged, back in 1995 in North Carolina, with a similar "weapon on school property" charge. Because his distribution of our material was perfectly legal, local authorities came up with the bogus gun charge. Jim Mathias is like Paul Lennon: a fighter! He will defeat this weapons charge just as Paul did, and with help from fellow Alliance members, just as Paul had behind him. Unfortunately, we do not yet have the number of members in Jim's region now that we had then in North Carolina. We turned Paul's defense into a powerful campaign in which 20,000 of the Alliance's Who Rules America? booklets were bulk mailed to people in tiny New Hanover County over a ten-month period — 2,000 every month! — with cover letters informing the potential jury pool of Paul's false arrest and defamation by the Jews of the New York Times Company, Inc, who owned the local newspaper. We sued the Times for libel pro se, as well as suing the local Negro sheriff for false arrest. We repeatedly blasted the Anti-Defamation League Jews whose hands were also dirty: They were using the Jew paper's libelous article about Paul, and mobilizing their sayanim to have "the Nazi pilot" fired by Continental Airlines.

We were the Jews' biggest nightmare in North Carolina until Paul was finally vindicated. That campaign galvanized our members in eastern North Carolina. We'll do it again, using the Internet more fully in Jim's case — a tool that was just coming into being in 1995.

Another First Amendment victory for the Alliance took place in 2004. It is still so instructive today that I'll reprint most of the National Vanguard article about it here as a good lesson for all of us in 2018:

SALT LAKE CITY: Four Members of the National Alliance had all charges dropped this week after five months of legal conflict with the state of Utah. The legal discord was the result of four members and one supporter of the Salt Lake City Local Unit of the National Alliance being arrested for "placing printed material on vehicles" in violation of a city ordinance prohibiting such placement.

In February the Unit had gathered to help in the international Valentine's Day 'Love Your Race' literature distribution. After dividing about 5,000 'Love your Race' fliers between several groups of four to six members and supporters they set out to place the fliers under the windshield wipers of cars parked in public parking lots. The majority of the group was experienced in this sort of literature dissemination, and public parking lots were chosen because of their definite protection under constitutional First Amendment rights.

After placing most of the fliers allotted to their group, the members who were later charged decided to finish off at a large lot which provided parking for more that fifteen shops and restaurants near downtown Salt Lake. They had nearly finished when four police cars and several unmarked cars spewed nearly twenty uniformed and plain-clothes officers around them. All of the people involved did a wonderful job of heeding the pre-activity briefing that was given to all members regarding proper behavior in this situation, but nonetheless everyone was arrested and cited for placing printed material on vehicles. The officers were shown "the right to distribute literature" flier downloadable from the National Alliance Web site, but were told that a "city ordinance actually has precedence over these [constitutional rights]."

The Salt Lake City Unit leadership decided, before the initial hearing, that they would price local lawyers and would do everything in their power to fight the second-degree misdemeanor charges as far as they could, including challenging the constitutionality of the city code. Since some of the members qualified for a public defender they decided to wait until after the hearing to see if there was any hope of real legal help from the government. After sitting through hours of court cases relayed to the judge in Spanish, they were certainly surprised when they met with their court-appointed attorney.

She was an attractive lady with an Icelandic flag hanging over her desk and a sign that read "Viking parking only" on her wall — and a solid history with civil rights cases. She explained the plea bargain offered by the state of Utah, a $400 fine and no jail time for each of the defendants, and that fighting it or accepting it were both viable options. However, she seemed very surprised and outright pleased when our members and supporters responded that they would not accept any plea bargain because it could create a precedent preventing them from exercising their First Amendment rights in the future. She then laid out a legal plan that would not only create a solid defense to the original prosecution, but would also leave the option open to challenge the constitutionality of the city ordinance with the Utah Supreme Court.

After the original plea bargain was rejected, the state of Utah attempted another plea bargain that dropped all monetary fines and would have allowed the National Alliance members to do "community service" volunteering for minority causes. Again, the offer was refused and the case moved forward.

The defendants' attorney moved for a dismissal of the case based on two primary arguments: that the prosecution violated the defendants' First Amendment right to freedom of speech, and that the prosecution violated the defendants' equal protection rights because they had been selectively prosecuted.

The first argument was based primarily on the unconstitutionality of the specific Salt Lake City ordinance because it prohibited all distribution of fliers, rather than simply restricting time or place of distribution for reasons that are necessary for public health, morals, peace, or welfare — and therefore is patently unconstitutional. This argument was based on precedents, including several cases regarding laws nearly identical to the Salt Lake City ordinance in other states being found unconstitutional based on their being overly broad (prohibiting all literature distribution rather than limiting it for legitimate reasons); several cases setting precedents due to the limitations on the government regulating speech on private property, particularly parking lots which are private property but are open to the public; and finally an interesting reference to Skokie v. The National Socialist Party of America that demonstrated the need to prevent any action that would create a "chilling effect on the right of free speech." Or, in other words: The government cannot restrict or limit any acts of free speech because the speech carries a message unpopular with government officials, the public, or special interest groups.

The second argument focused on the fact that the defendants' equal protection rights had been violated because they had been selectively prosecuted. This was due to the fact that the Salt Lake City ordinance under which they were charged was a little-used law that was being used to stop the dissemination of a political message that some powerful interests in the State of Utah found disagreeable. Other people "placing printed material on vehicles" — even those who did so regularly for months or years — were not prosecuted, and therefore the prosecution was based on the literature's content rather than on the actual acts of the defendants.

The State of Utah initially ignored the move for dismissal and both sides began to prepare for the scheduled jury trial. However, after the defendants' attorney subpoenaed a list of all instances of prosecution for this ordinance, the Attorney General of Utah asked that the case be dismissed — and all charges were dropped. Although the National Alliance was not able to strike down this outrageous law — this time anyway — our members now have a strong case for filing civil suits for selective enforcement and harassment if they are further prevented from disseminating our message.

The story of how our Alliance went up against the local authorities 14 years ago in Salt Lake City, Utah, and prevailed, is good to keep in mind today. Be careful. Be prepared. Know that distributing our literature is perfectly legal and constitutionally protected. Know your rights. And be prepared to defend those rights.

Speaking of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU): Lacking an attorney I mailed off a letter to the ACLU in January, requesting their assistance in going after both Paypal and Stripe for denying the Cosmotheist Church use of their Internet financial services, necessary for conducting commerce online. It's one thing for those two large, practically monopolistic corporations to deny the National Alliance their services, but another thing altogether to selectively deny services to a legitimate church, founded more than 40 years ago and registered as such continuously since 1986. We do not really expect either Paypal or Stripe to restore our church's services, so we are planning contingencies. But they have both been officially notified of our church's grievance with them on religious grounds, which is part of the legal process. We also don't really expect the ACLU to take up our Church's cause, but one never knows. This is a career case for a righteous constitutional attorney, because it not only deals with restriction of freedom of speech, but also with highly charged issues of freedom of religion and freedom of association. Do any members know of such an attorney? If so, put me in touch with him or her — especially if she's anything like the one who helped our Salt Lake City Local Unit in 2004.
